

LOTTERY FUNDING

a funding information leaflet from funderfinder

The National Lottery is controlled by the Department for Culture, Media and Sport and is run by Camelot, a private sector consortium including Cadbury Schweppes, ICL, De La Rue and Racal. Camelot has so far raised over £20 billion for good causes, and it has recently been chosen to run the third licence from 2009 to 2019.

Of the money received in sales 12% goes in tax, 50% in prizes, 5% to the operator, 5% to retailers, with the remaining 28% going in donations to good causes. There are currently 15 distributors of money to the 'good causes' of: arts, charities and voluntary groups, heritage, health, education, the environment and sports. In addition the Olympic Lottery Distributor has been established to support the provision of facilities, services and functions necessary to host the 2012 Olympic Games. This will not be open to applications.

There is an internet portal - a one-stop-shop - with information on all the lottery programmes and how to apply at: www.lotteryfunding.org.uk and a telephone hotline to provide the same information on tel: 0845 275 0000.

Arts

The Arts Councils distribute the arts' share, mostly as part of their general funding process. It is an on-going process - applications are often dealt with as they come in. In general bids are expected to be for more than £5,000 (apply to the Foundation for Sport and the Arts or Awards for All for lesser amounts). In addition, arts lottery schemes are also operated by the Film Council and the National Foundation for Youth Music.

Awards For All

This is a programme for small local groups across the UK. The scheme is a combination of funds from each of the lottery distributors. Projects could be in the area of arts, sports, heritage, charitable or community activity. Grants range from £300 in England (£500 elsewhere) to £10,000 and priority areas for funding are: to extend access and participation, support community activity, increase skill and creativity and improve quality of life.

Heritage

The Heritage Lottery Fund distributes money raised by the Lottery to support all aspects of heritage in the UK, from historic buildings and museums to archives, nature conservation and oral history. It provides both capital and time-limited activity grants. There is a new strategy for 2008-2013, with new application material and guidance. The aims however remain broadly the same:

- to encourage more people to be involved and make decisions about their heritage
- to conserve and enhance the UK's diverse heritage
- to ensure that everyone can learn about, have access to and enjoy their heritage

The focus is on investing in heritage for the long term, sustaining living heritage and sharing heritage. Heritage is taken as including:

- people's memories and experiences
- histories of people, communities, places and events
- cultural traditions
- historic buildings and townscapes
- archaeological sites
- collections of items, archives or other materials
- natural and designed landscapes
- habitats and species
- sites and collections links to our industrial, maritime and transport history

There are a number of different grant programmes:

- Awards For All (see above)
- Your Heritage
- Heritage Grants
- Repair Grants for Places of Worship
- Townscape Heritage Initiative
- Parks for People
- Landscape Partnerships
- Young Roots

Sport

The Sports Councils are distributing the Sports lottery money. The division of funds is based on population. It is an on-going process - applications are dealt with as they come in. Each Sports Council has its own priorities and programmes:

Sport England has two core funds, funded by both the lottery and central government: a community and national. Community grants over £10,000 are made locally by the nine regional sports boards. Eligible projects are assessed against the priorities laid out in each region's sports plan and the National Framework for Sport. In the national stream Sport England is investing £130 million in 31 key sports. This investment is distributed in conjunction with the national governing bodies plus a range of national partners. There are 10 English priority sports, 10 UK priority sports and 11 development sports.

Northern Ireland funds both individuals and organisations under a variety of programmes. The capital sports programmes give funds in the range of £10,000-£600,000 whilst the athlete support programme has no minimum or maximum levels. Both types of grant have rolling deadlines.

Sportscotland no longer has separate lottery funds - they have been merged into the general "pot" of funds it has available. Most of its funding goes to local authorities and governing bodies of sport but there are a few schemes which encourage direct application from the public such as Sportmatch and Awards for All.

In Wales the Community Chest gives grants of up to £1,000 to encourage people to become more physically active and Elite Cymru is aimed at assisting promising competitors.
